OUR STUDENT SUCCESS STORY

University American College Skopje is proud to announce that our undergraduate student Aleksandar Chaminski has recently published a report on the Harvard Business School.

Being part of the Harvard course on Microeconomics for competitiveness, Aleksandar and his team, under the supervision of Dr. Mark Esposito, made a report regarding "The Palm Oil Cluster and its contribution to the Colombian miracle". The report will be used as a case study and can be found by clicking here.

Aleksandar Chaminski currently attends his Master studies in International Business (MIB) at the Grenoble Graduate School of Business (London Campus).

DUTCH STUDENTS VISIT UACS

On the 28th of January, 2013, UACS hosted a delegation from the Association of Political Science Students of Leiden University, The Netherlands (SPIL).

Each year this association organizes two study trips for a select group of about 40 students of Political Science. The purpose of these journeys is to acquire more knowledge about both the culture and the political situation in other countries and to see how political organizations and institutions work in practice.

This year SPIL paid visit to Macedonia and Kosovo. As part of their program, the Dutch students visited our University. They attended a lecture by Prof. Dr. Stevo Pendarovski on Macedonia – its Foreign Policy and Internal Challenges – and had the chance to discuss related topics with students from the UACS School of Political Science.

STUDENTS VISIT FRENCH INSTITUTE

Students attending the French language course visited the French Institute on the 18th of December, 2012.

They were introduced to the activities of the French Institute, formerly the Centre Culturel Francais, such as exhibitions, concerts, film festivals, the possibilities to borrow e-books, CD ROMs, journals, magazines, newspapers, movies etc., learn French, take the DALF/DELF exams, and study in France.
